OUR PHILOSOPHY

Radici remains true to its original identity while being a part of a global textile group: A manufacturer of textile flooring in which tradition marries innovation, placing cutting-edge textile technologies at the service of creativity.

QUALITY

There are several hidden properties that can contribute to a superior textile flooring, therefore each phase of the product processing is carefully evaluated to achieve the best quality.

Tufting, Axminster and Wilton are the most common technologies to produce wall to wall carpet.

They all have few peculiar aspects that make them more suitable than others for the specific applications. What really makes the difference, in terms of quality, is the perfect mix between the density of the fiber and the quality of the yarn used.

YARN

In Radici we consider the selection of the raw material one of the main aspects to create an exceptional product.

We decide to use only the finest wool and we weave the yarn directly within our company Radici Hungary. By owning the yarn production from the start, we are able to truly optimize the quality of the final product.

For all our wool and Wilton products we believe in using the wool from the New Zealand, which has better properties compared to the European supply.

DESIGN

Our team of designers transforms every concept into a pattern.

Our customers can use the standard Ars, Ral & Pantone colors, but also take advantage of our incredible range of colors and designs.

Moreover, our laboratory can prepare any sample of design and textile for a realistic preview of the final product.

The well-known Italian design is at your service to meet your taste and desire, weaving any idea in a textile flooring to satisfy your specific needs. Every project for Radici Marine is unique and speaks of its client.

hand-made products

HANDTUFT

A hand-tufted rug is made using real embroidery and every single tuft is positioned one at a time by hand. This feature enables the combination of different types of yarn with different constructions, such as velvet and loop pile. In this way a different height is delivered in each single section, allowing to utilize the technique of carving. The result is stunning: dramatic three-dimensional effects, pleasant to the eye and to the touch. This technique enables the creation of any design with precision and a premium quality that only hand-made products can deliver.
